R. 30 ———

Dear Professor Peano, many thanks indeed for your most valuable corrections and notes to my book. Please forgive me for not already having answered with thanks this very great service; also for the Vocabulario Comune with its kind inscription and the other literature.

Mr Corio had kindly promised to advise you of their safe receipt, but I myself should have written to thank you. I was, however, in much trouble owing to the illness of the friend who was living here and not able to attend to the most important matters on that account.

I hope you will pardon my delay and accept my most grateful thanks for the splendid assistance you have given in the preparation of this book. I am looking forward to getting your final corrections.

Mr Corio sent to Mr Casati a copy of the list of languages I hope to receive any corrections and additions that may occur also to him as I am anxious to make the list as correct as possible.

I learn that Mr Corio is in mind to prepare an English manual of technique.
That will be very good.

Again thanking you

Sincerely yours

E. Sylvia Paul Rhurst.
