

BROWN UNIVERSITY
PROVIDENCE, RHODE ISLAND

April 23, 1928.

Professor Guiseppe Peano,
Via Barbaroux 4,
Torino, Italy

My dear Colleague,

I have today received your very kind invitation to contribute a paper to the Didactical Section of the International Congress next September. I do not believe that I shall have anything of special interest to give in that section. My two contributions will be given in the section of History of Mathematics. No doubt you will have a great many interesting communications and I shall certainly hope to attend some of your sessions.

It will be a pleasure for me to meet you once more again. I trust that you are enjoying the best of health.

With kindest remembrances, and

Cordially yours,

R. C. Archibald